Squeeze/Lightning Seeds, Sheffield O2 Academy.

A SATURDAY night taking a leisurely stroll through the illustrious Difford and Tilbrook songbook - a most pleasant prospect indeed.

Squeeze are back on the road playing their greatest hits and more with the added attraction (ha!) of Steve Nieve on keyboards.

Launching into Black Coffee In Bed then Take Me I'm Yours, the band is tight, the voices strong and everyone's up for a good time

A 100 minute set has space for selections from some of the dustier corners of the band's back catalogue - Hourglass is great fun, Loving You Tonight's a surprise, while the tempo slows for the supper club vibe of When The Hangover Strikes.

But it's the classics that get the feet moving and the voices singing along - Labelled With Love, Tempted, a slightly rushed Is that Love and of course Cool For Cats.

Pop songs don't some much better that Pulling Mussels From The Shell or the peerless Up The Junction, and it's bankers they haven't been heard live for so long.

At a time when many band reunions seem ten-a-penny affairs, Squeeze easily prove they still have the gold standard.

Early birds meanwhile were rewarded with a tight and tuneful set from Ian Broudie's Lightning Seeds - they have more than a few little belters themselves.

Chuckle Brothers Twelve Days of Christmas, The Lyceum.

TO me, to you, to Santa, to off the scale stupidity.

The Chuckle Brothers arrived back at The Lyceum with all the fun of Christmas and generous sprinklings of South Yorkshire humour which only they can provide.

The atmosphere was buzzing long before the curtain went up and there were huge cheers of delight at the mere thought of Barry and Paul stepping on stage.

This was the ultimate celebration of humour so stupid you can't help but laugh out loud.

It wasn't a complex storyline - Jack Frost has stolen all the Christmas toys and our unlikely heroes have to get them back in time for Santa to deliver to children across the world.

As with any Chuckle adventure there are daft comments, accidents, awful jokes and toilet humour in every scene - the worse the pun the greater the applause.

The sets are impressive and the kids enjoyed watching the magic tricks and glowing puppets, but of course it was Barry and Paul's crazy antics that we loved the most.

The brothers' rendition of 12 Days of Christmas was quite unlike anything you'll see anywhere else.

The props, the tricks and the fact you are never quite sure if they really know what they're meant to be doing always has everyone roaring with laughter.

The Chuckle Brothers are back at the Lyceum on April 9 with Ghostly Shadows.

Let's Wrestle, The Harley on Wednesday

WE love the name of this band, in Sheffield as warm up to equally raucous US indie rockers Titus Andronicus tomorrow.

Having re-released debut album In The Court Of Wrestling Let's, the London trio have made My Schedule a free download. Think Pavement, Dinosaur Jr, even the Buzzcocks and Buddy Holly, with pithy lyrics.

Titus Andronicus, meanwhile, consolidated their fearsome live reputation this year with sophomore LP The Monitor.

Meanwhile tonight, Broomhill pub The Fox and Duck continues to showcase rising talent with a visit from Hot Flux, a Sheffield band who serve up original tunes as well as covers ranging from Akon to Feeder.
